I ran to the baker.  Can you bake me a cake?

Hurry up please. I hate being late.  The cake looks like a plane.  I have no candles.  I will place a flame  and a name to save the game.

Now let's go in the cave.  Come on let's be brave. There is a lake  just below the cave.

Bring a rake  because there are snakes  and bring some grapes  for us to eat as we look at the waves.  I have a tale to tell you. It dates back some hundred years ago. A brave man made a plate  of slate. He had to save a princess from a very big snake. He put grapes on the plate as the snake came out to play. The pale princess was safe as they ran away.

Off we go

The sun  shines brightly today. I would like to go for a ride on the bike.  You could come with me. I will take some time to get five bikes so we can  ride a mile. It's nine o'clock  and we must go. Drive slowly because the white road  is not so wide. Drive in a line  and not side by side. Let's drive by the mine.  We can get some ripe apples  from the trees near the pipe.  Wipe the apples clean before you eat them.  Look, I can see a hive  on the tree. My wife has never seen a hive in her life. Let's stop for a while. We can watch the tide and have some fun before it's time to go back home.

Tommy broke a bone.  He could not go home  alone. So he woke his sister, Molly. Her  nose was as red as a rose.  "I hope this is no joke!" she said. She poked on Tommy's leg  who yelled  in pain. Molly got a pole  and tied it to his leg with a rope.  Then she drove him slowly down the slope. Molly had to stop. Some stones got stuck in the spoke of her bike.  She kicked out the stones and woke up a mole.  Those stones hit his nose, poor little mole. Molly drove off, but soon had to stop again. She could not drive. There was too much smoke.  A house  was on fire. Poor Tommy!

Amy has a blue cube.  She can amuse me with it too. Fumes  come out of this cube if you break the rules.

Robert has a flute.  He made the flute from a long tube. The flute  plays in tune, but I refuse to use this flute.

In June I will prune  the trees  in the garden. The duke will be here so salute  and don't be rude.

The mule  is afraid. There are too many fumes  for him to escape. Can you amuse the mule while I take him out.

The mule will not refuse to come out.
